Applicants for financial aid must completely and truthfully answer all questions above (failure to do so may result in being declined or immediate requirement that all monies outstanding be due and payable immediately including a $75 penalty - which is due in addition within 3 business days). No applicants will be judged based on their racial or familial status in accordance with Federal & State equal credit and fair lending laws. All applicants will be based solely on their creditworthiness. Applicant and co-applicant who sign below agree to be 100% responsible for the funds including any reasonable court fees and/or collection costs due to a necessary action. Financial aid only covers tuition only (text books and other materials must be paid for at time of registration and will not reduce the price of the tuition being charged [i.e., if the NYS Salesperson Qualifying Course cost $200 - and an applicant paid $25 for materials - they would still be charged $200 for the cost of the program]. Failure to pay back this note in the terms agreed to may result in the applicant being charged interest at the repayment schedule noted above, negative information being reported to a regional credit reporting agency (including for the co-signer) and other legal actions in accordance with the law. This note may be canceled within 3 business days after approved by all parties with no monies being due except for the cost of books and materials as noted earlier in this section. Down payments are forfeited after attendance at two class sessions. I understand by my signature below that the WNY School of Real Estate is in no way guaranteeing me employment in the field and that guidance will be provided on career options via the Internet or by my instructor (during my attendance at the School).
